Council Passes Ordinance Requiring Impact Reports

The City Council of Seaside has passed an ordinance that will require environmental impact reports for any project that could have a significant effect upon the environment. Because it contained an urgency clause, the ordinance will take effect immediately. It was passed unanimously by the four council members present.

The ordinance provides that the planning commissioner shall determine whether a proposed project could have a significant effect upon the environment. If he feels that it would, he must prepare an environmental impact report, which must be acted upon by the entire planning commission and the city council following public hearings.

Planning Director William Burris estimates that the new ordinance will apply only to about five percent of the applications for building permits, use permits, subdivision map approvals and zone changes.

Should the director determine that the project needs no impact study it will be placed on file in the planning department for ten days and published once in the Seaside Post News-Sentinel.

An appeal to the city council may be made concerning the director's ruling. A public hearing would then be held on more than 21 days later.

The following types of projects are excluded by the ordinance from the need for a report:

1. Repair, maintenance or minor alteration of existing structures where there is no material change in the external dimensions and no attendant change in the general character of the use.

2. New single family dwelling in areas where other single family dwellings already exist in the same block.
3. Additions to existing single family structures in areas zoned for single family dwellings.
4. Accessory buildings where a single family dwelling already exists on the same lot.
5. Swimming pools and patio covers.
6. Minor additions to existing buildings other than single family dwellings.

gle family, provided the addition does not exceed 50 percent of the floor area of the existing building.

7. Any structure in an area that has already been the subject of a report. The reports must include the environmental impact of the proposed project, any irreversible environment growth-inducing impact, boundaries of the area that may be affected, any probable adverse effects, measures to minimize the impact, alternatives to the proposed action and the "relationship between local short term use of man's environment and maintenance and enhancement of long term productivity."

All costs connected with the preparation of the report, according to Burris must be paid by the applicant.

Highway 1 Reopened

Workers have cleared a way through the tons of mud and rocks that covered Highway 1 following last week's massive slide. The highway is now open again.

With clear weather prevailing over the weekend, salvage work continued at River Village, where the worst damage occurred.

The Red Cross has opened a fund drive to help four families from the area who were described as totally wiped out. According to Mrs. Harold Snow, publicity chairman for the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross, contributions for the families can be sent to Box AR, Carmel.

She added that at the moment they are asking for only money. "No clothing or food should be sent." The Big Sur Post Office, which was ousted from its quarters by the slide, has been relocated at the Point Sur Naval Facility. It is now open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

Post Office officials say that all services are available for incoming and outgoing mail and delivery service will continue on the star route down to Gorda.

OUR KIND OF MUSIC - Seaside's own radio station--KZEN-FM formally began broadcasting recently. Celebrating beginning of programming are (from left) Teddy Greene, Richard George and Leonard Kasselman, owner. Kasselman says station will operate 24 hours a day, with music dedicated "to the people." It will feature latest in rock and roll, jazz and gospel.

Parks Named For Two Seasiders

Two members of Seaside's ethnic minority have been honored by the City Council, who named two new city parks after them.

The two one-acre parks in Hannon Redevelopment Project were named for S. Rudolph Martin and Marcel Sabado.

The two names were selected from a list of seven submitted by Councilman Stephen Ross.

Martin is pastor of Victory Temple Church of God in Christ and a bishop of Church of God in Christ.

Sabado is president of Fil-American Community Club of the Monterey Peninsula and a member of the Seaside Human Relations Commission.

In other council action, Mayor B.J. Dolan proclaimed next week National Bible Week in Seaside.

A long discussion was held concerning the extension of use of land in the Monterey Peninsula Auto Center to Auto-related firms. Presently the area is reserved only for auto dealers. Councilmen Joe Cota, Ross and Dolan all agreed that a study should be made to determine possible alternate uses for the four remaining unsold parcels of land in the center.

Councilwoman Billie Barton voiced opposition to the proposal. She was joined in dissent by former Councilman Bud Houser who pointed out that progress had been hindered by the "tight money market."

Jim Wester, owner of Wester Volkswagen, the first dealership in the center and president of the Seaside Chamber of Commerce, said that he hated to see the project fall short of completion when it is so near the end, but yet he realized that the land could not remain empty forever.

Dolan concluded the discussion by adding that the land be kept available for auto dealers, but at the same time the staff should quietly look into alternate uses.

ON DISPLAY - This graphic of "Flowers" by Michelle Porter (left) is now hanging in City Hall. It is one of 60 pieces entered in Sixth Annual Seaside Art Exhibition. You can see this and other works selected by judges as winners now through end of November.

IRS Gives Tax Exemption

The Internal Revenue Service has issued a ruling recognizing the tax exempt status of 9 California private schools that have announced a racially nondiscriminatory policy in admission of students to all activities of the schools. Mr. Charles E. Kingman, District Director for the Internal Revenue Service for the Northern California, said recently. The schools in this area are:

Monterey County Christian Schools
c/o 285 Pingree Way
Salinas, CA 93901

Life School, Inc.
424 North Third Street
San Jose, CA 95112

The ruling has been issued under the statement of position announced by the IRS on July 10, 1970, concerning the tax exempt status of private schools. In that statement the IRS concluded that it could no longer legally justify recognizing exempt status to private schools that practice racial discrimination. Nor can it allow gifts to such schools to be treated as charitable deductions for income tax purposes. The IRS position is applicable to all private schools throughout the United States.

Highway Patrol Ready For Long Week-End

The Thanksgiving holiday will begin this afternoon so far as the California Highway Patrol is concerned according to Capt. Dan W. Lyons of Monterey Area.

"All available officers will be out on the roads and highways beginning late Wednesday afternoon and the Patrol will maintain maximum coverage until Monday morning," Capt. Lyons said recently. "Our primary concentration will be on accident prevention."

"The Patrol adopted this basic procedure on Labor Day weekend and it was successful."

All officers will be on the alert to identify those drivers and situations that could cause accidents. Special watch will be maintained for wrong way drivers and individuals driving while under the influence of alcohol, narcotics or dangerous drugs. Vehicles that bottleneck traffic by driving too slow in fast lanes and those that tailgate the cars in front of them will also be of particular concern.

"And very special emphasis," Capt. Lyons declared, "will be placed on the removal of vehicles that break down on highways and freeways where their passengers become extremely vulnerable to accidents."

Although the Patrol will be concerned with all streets, roads and highways within its jurisdiction, football games, resort areas and other locations expected to attract large crowds will receive concentrated coverage.

Last year, 65 persons were killed in traffic accidents during the Thanksgiving holiday, 88 died in 1970 and there were 76 victims in 1969.

Festival of Trees Coming

Wise-men, draped in velvet, paper-mache pigs and flower-bedecked bulls herald the advent of the holiday season when the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art presents the 4th Annual Festival of the Trees on December 1, 2 and 3.

Gaily decorated trees, festooned with lights, Christmas music, and refreshments will be features of the display, which will also include an old-fashioned "Country Store" filled with home-made candy, cookies, ginger-bread and chutney.

Museum members have been working since last February to hand-craft the various ornaments which decorate the large "theme" trees already purchased by local merchants.

Small trees, adorned with hand-made ornaments and boutique gift items, all created by committee members, will be for sale to the public. "A Story-Book Christmas", designed to enchant children, will be presented on Sat., December 2, between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The Festival will be held at the Museum from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., Friday through Sunday. Sunday it will be from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. Guests will be welcomed with a Was-sail Bowl.

Price for adults is $1.50; for military in uniform, 50¢; children, 12 or under, 50¢. The Museum is located at 559 Pacific St., Monterey. For further information call 372-5477.

Women's Club To Hold Elections

Election and installation of officers for the Monterey Bay Republican Women's club will take place on Tuesday, November 28. The affair will be a tea from 2 to 4 p.m. and will be held at Obergs Restaurant, instead of the Elks Club as formerly announced.

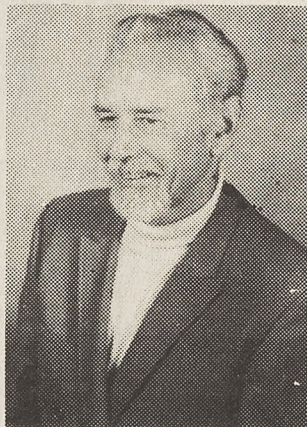

Installing officer and guest speaker will be Mrs. Harry Umhey of Los Angeles, state president of the California Federation of Republican Women. Mrs. Umhey has been active in politics and community affairs for many years.

Reservations may be made through Friday, November 24 with Mrs. Edwin N. Kent, 375-8046 or Mrs. Gerald Harr, 374-2630. Visitors are welcome.

A.E. Barragan

People who have read good literature have lived more than people who cannot or will not read. To have read GULLIVER'S TRAVELS is to have had the experience, with Jonathan Swift, of turning sick of one's stomach at the conduct of the human race. To have read HUCKLEBERRY FINN is to feel what it is like to drift down the Mississippi River on a raft. To have read Byron is to have suffered with him his rebellions and neuroses and to have enjoyed with him his nose-thumping at society. To have read NATIVE SON is to know how it feels to be frustrated the way many Blacks in Chicago are frustrated. This is the wonderful task that effective communication performs. It enables us to feel how others felt about life, even if they lived thousands of miles away and centuries ago. It is not true that we have only one life to live; if we can read, we can live as many more lives and as many kinds of lives as we wish.

There are two different meanings of the word "live" involved in the expression "living one's own life" and "living other people's lives in books." Living other people's lives in books means Symbolic Experience, or "Vicarious Experience."

I would like for you to share "other people's lives" in this writing. If you can, don't the lives of our fellowmen and the families who have suffered, and are still suffering, God-made devastation in the Big Sur Area. Some may con-

Hello everybody.

Sometimes you just look at something and you know you're going to like it. Basketball must have been that way for Walt Frazier. Chess must have been that way for Bobby Fisher. And James Taylor probably experienced the same thing when he picked up a guitar for the first time. Lots of people have talent and things they are really good at. Very often, people discover these things within themselves at school. They find themselves gliding to the top—unexpectedly. It surprises them because they can't always attribute their rapid ascent to hard work. It just sort of happens.

TODAY'S ARMY has plenty of opportunities for young people who are good at making things happen, particularly people with a flair for foreign languages. But all talents, no matter how considerable, have to be refined. Producing an expert linguist, for example, requires a combination of several things; a young man or woman with a special feel for languages, careful instruction by expert leaders in the field and an opportunity for the young student to test himself under stress.

TODAY'S ARMY can offer young people with that kind of special talent everything they need to no about it to its very depths. In fact, even college language professors will tell you the best school for Language Arts is located in Monterey, California. It is operated by the U.S. Army.

In Monterey, you'll find yourself translating and interpreting foreign documents and other material including combat orders, administrative directives, messages, personnel record and reports. And you'll be expected to prepare professional summaries of your translations. TODAY'S ARMY will utilize your expertise in other areas. You may be asked to translate announcements, speeches, radio scripts and other material for use in non-English speaking countries. Or to assist in interpreting activities relating to legal proceedings, conferences, work parties, public relations interviews and radio and loudspeaker broadcasts.

We need SPECIAL PEOPLE. Self-starters, they call them in industry. The kind of people who can give it straight. Who can take a piece of material written in a foreign language and after digesting the fundamental ideas, offer a concise, lucid explanation of what they just read. An expert linguist enjoys the same stature as other professionals in TODAY'S ARMY. They also share the generous benefits accorded all Army Professionals. That's some kind of deal. In any language.

If you would like to be stationed in Monterey attending Language School, please contact us at 431-Webster St. Monterey, or call 372-4742/372-0553. Wishing all of you a HAPPY THANKSGIVING.

Navy to Train Women to Fly

Eight women from among the officers and officer candidates now on active duty will be chosen to enter the Navy's flight training program, Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt, Chief of Naval Operations, announced recently. This is the latest of a series of moves to equalize opportunities for women throughout the Naval service, according to Zumwalt.

"The physical and mental qualifications will be essentially the same as those prescribed for men," said Bill Burgess, Navy recruiter for this area. "All those selected will go through basic flight training in propeller and helicopter aircraft," Burgess stated.

According to Adm. Zumwalt, the women are restricted by federal law from being assigned to duty in aircraft engaged in combat missions," stated Burgess. "But they may be scheduled to fly in certain search and rescue missions or in transports."

The total period of training will be about 18 months.

"Additional information concerning this program can be obtained by calling 372-1433," said Burgess. "Or they can visit my office at 431 Webster Street, Monterey."

Virginia Capers is the only Black actress ever to tour the Holy Land with an Israeli musical company.

Recipe Corner

By Gerda Bock
NUT CURRY

This recipe is a good one for Lenten fare, vegetarians and anybody who likes the rich flavor of nuts and the spiciness of a good, hot curry.

- 1/4 pound mixed nuts;
- 1 tablespoon butter;
- 1/2 apple, chopped;
- 1 teaspoon chopped onion;
- 1 small potato, diced;
- 1 teaspoon curry power;
- Salt and pepper;
- 3/4 Pint milk;
- 1 tablespoon raisins;
- 1 tablespoon flour;
- Boiled rice;

Roast the nuts in a hot oven for a few minutes and chop them. Melt the butter in a saucepan and fry the apple, onion, nuts and potato. Add the curry powder and seasonings. When thoroughly blended, stir in the milk, add the raisins, and simmer gently for half an hour, or until the potato is cooked. Add the blended flour and boil for another five minutes. Serve with a border of boiled rice and garnish with hard-cooked eggs... Serves two.

Wildlife Film to Be Shown

Allen D. Cruickshank, nationally famous photographers-naturalist, focuses on Glacier National Park in his "Big Sky Wilderness", an Audubon Wildlife Film to be shown at Pacific Grove Junior High School, Friday, December 1, at 8 p.m.

Mr. Cruickshank has explored most parts of North America observing wildlife in remote habitats as well as urban areas. He spent twelve months photographing this film in Montana which includes three of America's most magnificent National Wildlife Refuges--Red Rock Lakes, Lake Bowdoin and the National Bear Range. An awesome country is presented and elk, moose, black bears, mountain goats, wild sheep and bison share this world with trumpeter swans, pelicans and, to a limited degree, man.

This is the second presentation of a film series co-sponsored by the National Audubon Society and the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society. Single admission at the door is $1.25.

Selma, Ala., which made world headlines in the 1960's is once again in the news. This time, a 30-man detachment of the 931st Engineering Battalion from Ft. Benning, Ga., came to town to volunteer its services in the city's redevelopment program.

During a two-week period, the soldiers rid Selma of around 400 junk automobiles, hauled clay and gravel for road bases on city streets, and renovated an old railroad depot for use as a youth center. The city is furnishing the materials and the Army is contributing both manpower and equipment.

A record number of colleges in the nation are offering Army ROTC this fall. Two hundred ninety-three schools are included in the program, up from 283 last year.

Chalk up another record for an Army man. First Lt. Richard D. Hart, currently stationed in Germany, just broke the record for swimming the English Channel. He swam it in 9 hours and 44 minutes, shaving 13 minutes off the old record.

The Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration inspected 29,505 establishments during fiscal 1971.

The case of the disappearing paycheck and what to do about it.

Some people learn the hard way. Paychecks disappear fast.

Day-to-day living expenses eat up a lot. And maybe part goes in the savings account for this year's vacation or another immediate goal.

A good chunk of that money seems to disappear by itself.

So it's no wonder that when it comes to long-term goals, or when an emergency comes up, there simply aren't funds to meet the need.

Unless there was a nest egg building up all that time.

A good way to build that nest egg is with U.S. Savings Bonds. The easy way to buy them is to sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. An amount you specify will be set aside from your paycheck and used to buy Bonds.

And while you're going through grocery bills, car repairs, vacation weekends, kids' toys and nights out on the town, you'll know you're saving money too.

That's good to know.

Now E Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America. Join the Payroll Savings Plan.

Five big reasons why winter living makes your PG&E bill go up:

More heat escapes because of lower outside temperatures.

Your lights are on more because days are shorter.

You need more heat because of colder weather.

You spend more time indoors reading or watching TV.

Here's what you can do to take some of the bite out of winter heating bills. Insulate walls and ceilings, weatherstrip around windows and doors, pull drapes over windows at night, and close fireplace damper when not in use. PG&E sider it man-made devastation because the results of the carelessness of man has been blamed for the end result of devastation. But God made man out of His flesh. Homes were burned and threatened, residences were vacated and many people fled for their lives leaving behind personal possessions. A couple months later the rains came. Some homeowners had already repaired the fire damage, but most of them were still in the process of repair. Like an earthquake with the sound of thunder, mud and huge rocks moved uncontrolled through the same area the blistering blaze swept only shortly before. (To some, it seemed as only yesterday).

Neighbors and friends immediately assisted in restoring the Big Sur community back to normal. Professional contractors were again instructed in their various trades as how to best rectify the damage.

Life returned to "normal" in that area. People resumed their "people duties" and the livestock found other "live" grazing fields. Then for the third time in less than twice as many months, the same residences were routed from their comfortable living quarters, forced out into the stormy deluge of rainfall, and watched helplessly as their homes and businesses were ruthlessly uprooted and covered, to the roofs in some instances, by hundreds of pounds of mud and rock, encouraged by thousands of gallons of rain.

Now, during the calm, the heavy equipment has moved in. They have opened the highway again, people can resume their travels from Northern California to Southern California by way of the "world's most scenic highway." Or is it?

They probably will zoom through Central California, especially Big Sur Area, with only a slim thought of the peril recently experienced by the people of the area. Until they see something "interesting" to remark on, their minds will be on the "big deal" they put over recently, or how they are going to relax and enjoy a few days from the office or field.

We started this column as "living other People's lives." It wasn't exactly enjoyable, was it? It happens each time you read a book, or the newspaper, or this column. You have the power to live practically any life you wish. As long as you "know" the life you want.

My boss, Andy Barragan, his wife, Jean, and their daughter, Kathy and myself drove down to Big Sur last Friday afternoon to see first hand what was going on. It was the most unforgettable trip I have ever experienced. We saw new cars washed in the river. We saw trailer homes upturned and filled with mud and grime. We saw people walking in the mud salvaging what they could. We saw mud almost level with the second floor of the building that housed the post Office, the Village Grocery Store, and the Village Garage. We saw walls completely collapsed. But the most tragic and heroic attempt of salvation we witnessed was when we saw this huge bulldozer in the river with water, at times, almost level with the operator, desperately trying to save a home on the river bank whose foundation was being pounded by the roaring waters. He was clearing a path of diversion for the river so it would by-pass the foundation of the house. And risking his life in the process.

As we were about to leave a gentlemen talked with us about trying to sell some heavy equipment to the area whereby they could more swiftly accomplish the task of clearing the area. As we walked away, Mrs. Barragan, in disgust, asked, mostly murmuring to herself, why he couldn't simply donate the equipment or just loan it to the area if it would help as much as he claims.

On the brighter side of the coin I would like to suggest to all the readers who have FM radios to turn in on KZEN/FM if you desire wonderful music. It is music the peninsula is hungry for and doesn't know it. People may love certain delicacies. Then they taste a new one and wonder how could they have been so in love with one taste without trying others.

I went to bed early Saturday night. So I awakened early on Sunday. While trying to find some music to "soothe" me, I heard this wonderful gospel music on 107.1/FM. It was KZEN on the air. Our own Seaside Station coming in like "gangbusters." I couldn't be interrupted for the first several hours, but finally I called Richard George, manager of the station and congratulated him wholeheartedly. He informed me that they are (or were) in the testing stage from 6 a.m. to noon, but it will be a 24 hours station on regular broadcasts.

Andy says "Hi" and "Keep your powder dry."

Last week I mentioned several things which I believed to be developing problems for Monterey County. One of the more serious problems is TRANSPORTATION. This week saw action taken by the Cities of Salinas and Monterey, and in action by Carmel and Sand City, which will no doubt delay any improvement in the bus system for many months.

During the past years I have watched the Monterey Peninsula Cities begin to work together in joint projects which could build the entire area into a better place to live. Many of these good plans have died on the vine. It is my sincere hope that our TRANSPORTATION PLAN may still go FORWARD and develop into a unifying force to demonstrate that WE CAN all work toward a common good.

Unfortunately in our fast changing world, if we do not learn to work together to solve such things as our TRANSIT NEEDS to serve the people, we may find some State or Regional Authority doing the job for us WITH THE FULL APPROVAL of those whom we have failed to serve on the LOCAL LEVEL.

For 10 years we have talked about Highway 68. This stretch of road has become so increasingly dangerous and congested that it can not be tolerated much longer. Absolution to eliminating a large portion of the traffic off this highway would be to extend the hold for PENINSULA BUS SYSTEM to the City of Salinas to benefit both areas.

This is a job that the public wants taken care of so let's do it before some other agency does it for us and replaces local control with other alternatives.

As I See It

BY MEL VERCOE

A prominent State Assemblyman, Edwin Z'berg of Sacramento, was arrested on a drunken driving charge last week after his car plowed into the rear of another vehicle and knocked it 70 feet out of position.

Three years ago Mr. Z'berg pleaded "no contest" (another word for guilty) to a similar drunken driving charge. At that time he was fined $302, but the whole thing was immediately covered up by a municipal judge who set aside both the plea and the conviction and wiped it off the records as if the incident had not occurred.

So, for all practical purposes if you wish to drink while driving, don't be a plumber or a shoe store clerk or a unemployed mechanic. Instead, be a State Assemblyman and know some people who know some people. It will be amusing to find out how this latest incident is covered up. Presumably it will be determined that the booze in Mr. Z'berg's bloodstream had nothing to do with his inability to drive safely, and it just so happened that an aspirin he had taken the week before was impairing his vision.

All of which reminds me of an account I heard about how Sweden, an obviously backward and uncivilized country in Europe, managed to reduce drunk driving to practically zero. When a person in Sweden is caught driving while intoxicated, he is immediately given a test, and if he fails the test, he is taken directly to jail to serve a term of six months. No trial, no suspended sentence, no appeals, no bail, no probation, just straight to jail for six months, regardless of extenuating circumstances, political influence or economic status.

A bit drastic, I suppose, but in America where alcohol plays a part in one half of our 56,000 traffic deaths each year, it might be worth trying, even if it only saved 20,000 lives the first year.

In order to help reduce the number of people who might be tempted to drive while intoxicated, the Swedes have a regular program of transporting such people so that they won't have to drive. If they can't get a taxi or can't afford one, the police will furnish them transportation and assist them up the steps and through their own front doors to the arms of their ever-loving wives, and I expect in many cases these ever-loving wives would prefer that friend husband try driving home by himself so they wouldn't have to look at him across the breakfast table for a glorious six months.

But, let's face it, America is too civilized for such a thing. Much better that 20,000 people die each year unnecessarily than that an occasional politician be embarrassed by being tossed in the pokey.

Soul Food

Director, Mission Possible

Thanksgiving 1972

In a country of oppression, injustice, internal and external war, violence in the streets, the rising cost of living and many other problems, many people might wonder this Thanksgiving what, if anything, we have to be thankful for.

I do not wish to de-emphasize our problems and concerns. However, there is still much to be thankful for. Most of us will not go hungry this season; we will probably have so much food that we will not be able to move for several hours after Thanksgiving dinner. Most of us will have shelter, transportation and warm clothes. We will have friends and family. For these things we should, surely, be grateful.

I, for one, will not give thanks to our government for these things, except indirectly and where it may apply. Thanks can only be given to God who is the Source of all things. If any politicians, doctors, social workers or ministers can be thanked for our benefits it is only in the sense that they are instruments of the Divine Will, simply acting out the purpose of Cosmic Order.

For we must remember; not everyone will have a big Thanksgiving dinner or shelter or warm clothes and the wealthy powers that be, only, are responsible for these inadequacies. The Red Man will not sit at our tables and feast with us as they did that first Thanksgiving. For, beginning with those first white pilgrims, we have stolen their land and their food, and they are not thankful.

I am thankful, rather, that the Lord is enabling the poor and powerless to stand up in this day and ask for those things of which they have been deprived.

I am thankful for the "Movement," the movement to stop the war, the movement to demand justice and equality, the movement to save the earth from the lords of greed.

I am thankful for the "counter culture" for dropping out, and protesting against the great society which is raping and plundering the Earth and its people so that their Thanksgiving glutony may be filled to the brim.

I am thankful for God who is enabling his children to rise against the World Beast which is murdering not only turkeys but its children as well, in the name of comfort and progress.

I am thankful for these times which have awakened many of us to the needs of those who have little to be thankful for this Thanksgiving, 1972.

HAPPY THANKSGIVING

On behalf of our City Council, we wish to extend a Happy Thanksgiving to all Seaside Citizens and we also wish the very best of holidays to our military neighbors. On this occasion, we can individually pause to give our thanks to God for his countless blessings. Peace to the World!

Our City is now over eighteen years old, and the progress that we have experienced in that short period is a great source of pride for all our citizens. Numerous and dedicated people have contributed to our progress. Contributors to the progress of our City include many races, creeds, colors, national origins, and divergent political affiliations and beliefs. Special recognition is also apropos for our young people who are participating in our community projects and serving on our City commissions.

We have over fourteen different parks in our City. Most of them are named in honor of someone who contributed to the development of Seaside in an outstanding manner. We have honored many of our citizens by naming other projects for them. This is as it should be. But up to the present, we have few, if any, parks or projects named after BROWNS, and none named after BLACKS.

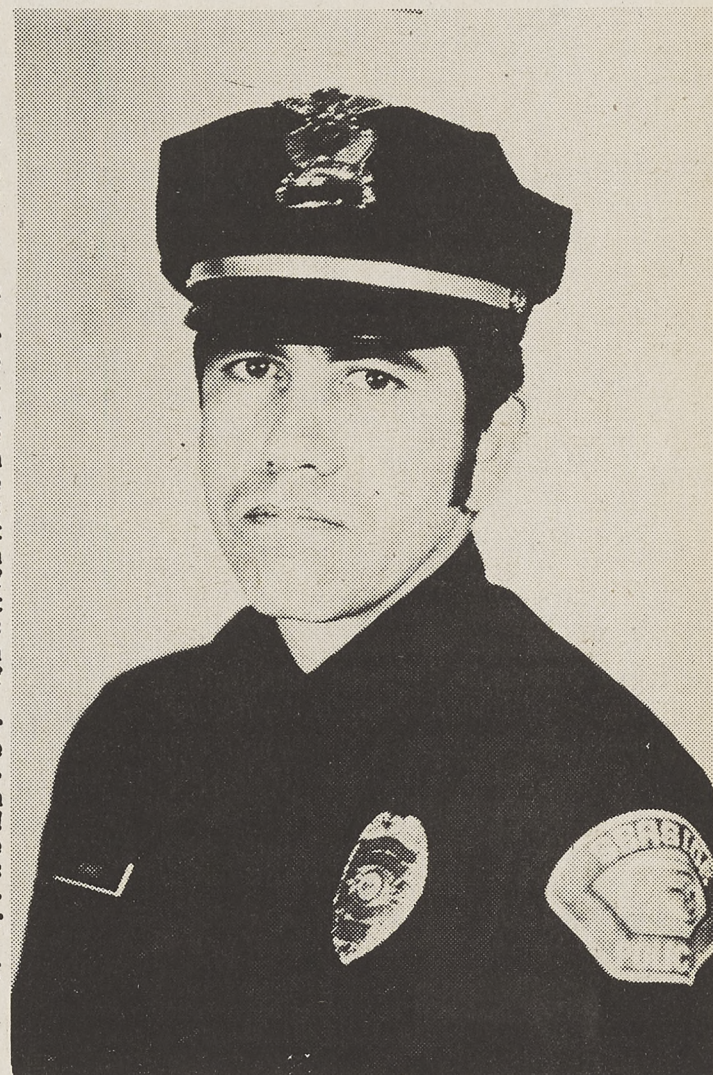

The Parks and Recreation Commission held a special meeting on Tuesday, November 14, 1972. The purpose of the meeting was to carry out direction from the City Council relative to the naming of the two parks under construction in the Hannon Project. It was the recommendation of the Parks and Recreation Commission that Park No. 2, located on Judson Place be named in honor of Bishop S.R. Martin, and that Park No. 4, located on Flores Place between Mingo and San Pablo, be named in honor of Mr. Marcial Sabado.

Your Council, on November 16, 1972, by unanimous vote concurred with the recommendations. We congratulate both Bishop Martin and Mr. Sabado. We are very grateful for the many, many countless hours that they have given of themselves to help others in our City.

Again - Happy Thanksgiving to you, one and all!

Joseph Burnes

A native of California, Joe Burnes was born in Modesto, and because his family located in Salinas he remained there until he was 18 years old. He attended school in the Salinas school system. Joe attended Hartnell College where he majored in Electrical Engineering Technician. Upon graduation from Hartnell he enlisted his service with the U.S. Navy as a Electrician and spent four years aboard the USS Hornet.

After his discharge from the U.S. Navy he returned to Salinas and worked as an electrician for about one year. He then went to work for Firestone and worked there for 5 1/2 years. During the last months of his employment with Firestone Joe attended Cabrillo College where he became interested in Law Enforcement. Applying to Seaside Police Department, he was hired in September, 1970.

Since Joe has worked with the Seaside Police Department he has attended various schools in order to further his knowledge and education in the field of law enforcement. At the present time, he is attending Monterey Peninsula College, and upon his graduation will be attending a higher place of learning.

In talking with Joe, he stated that his outside interests are competitive sports, primarily in the field of Judo. He has competed in competition and has done rather well. Joe has been an asset to the police department and to the community which he serves. It is a pleasure to have a man of his caliber within the ranks of our department.

NOTE: CREDO FOR POLICE HUMANISM Part one:

I believe....in the essential dignity of every being, no matter what their status or state in life. To those citizens having the most contact with the police, life has provided little opportunity and much disappointment. The test of this belief in human dignity depends upon my not becoming disillusioned or bitterly cynical towards people who exhibit weakness and inadequacy.

PART TWO NEXT WEEK

Letter to the Editor

Editor-Retired folks may be interested in a statement I have read recently over Stations KLRB-FM and KIDD-AM. This is its condensed version:

It cannot be repeated too often that a civilization can best be judged by how it treats its older citizens. Old folks have done much to enrich it with decades of labor. What can the wealthiest land in all of history do for them?

1. It can guarantee them a comfortable American standard of living. It can provide for an elderly person at least $5,000 a year, for a married couple at least $7,500 a year.

2. It can see to it that where there is no decent housing available at rents they can afford, that the government will insure that such be built.

3. It can broaden Medicare to include all hospital, doctor, dental, drug, nursing and chiropractic services, to pay all their bills. It can eliminate the awful fed-tape of filling out their forms themselves.

4. For those elderly who cannot look after themselves our government should provide homes of dignity and care where healthful food is provided and a person has some choice in his meals.

5. Public transportation at special rates can be provided for those who have no cars. Many are now unable to go where they want and feel helpless.

6. It should arrange good recreation for them-free or at low expense-so that they can enjoy shuffleboard and other mild exercise games, attend better movies, plays, concerts, lectures, rodeos, County Fairs, picnics and nice trips.

7. Society can arrange for them to get an annual vacation at reduced rates to some beautiful spot or to visit a relative or friend some distance away.

8. It can remove heavy tax burdens. It can completely exempt old folks with incomes of $10,000 or less (and most elderly get much, much less) from filling forms or paying any Federal, State or Local income taxes, or property taxes.

9. Part-time work should be made available for those elderly who desire it.

10. Government, schools, press, radio, T.V., movie, theatre should pull together to teach respect and consideration for the elderly. They can help warm the heart of America for them. They can thus help overcome the nagging loneliness and neglect that so many old folks feel.

Let us not forget that, retired folks are the fathers, mothers, grand parents and great grandparents of most people of our country. They have weathered much disappointments and heartaches in the course of a lifetime. In the mad rush all of us seem to be in, let us not neglect them. God bless them! Show them your love! Help them, dear nation, in every way! God bless an America that does right by them!

Sincerely yours,

George Hernan,
Marina

Guaranteed Romance

by Judy Wittenberg

A man with the romantic name of Dyon Claydon Calthrop once said, "The romance in life consists in doing what you have to do decoratively." At first glance this statement might seem about as credible as the man's name, but clarification of a few key terms should help to remove initial doubts.

The word "romance" here needs to be understood as not just head-in-the-clouds love, but in its broader sense as the unusual, the exciting, the extraordinary. Another key term is "decoratively." The root of this word means to design, furnish, embellish, or adorn; to confer distinction upon. Thus amplified, the statement may be tested on some of life's necessary tasks to see if it is valid.

One of the chores remembered painfully by many is the filing of an annual income tax return. Ordinarily this is done slowly, carefully, tediously. But rarely has it ever been done decoratively—unless the padding of certain expenses could be construed as "decorative."

Consider the possible effects of embellishing those dull black and white pages with brightly colored inks. In all probability the results will so please the weary-eyed spot checker that he will immediately okay it no matter how big a refund check you have requested. Of course, there is still the possibility that your refreshing innovation might wake him up so that he catches an error he might otherwise would have missed. If it is in your favor, the check will be even larger than anticipated. If not, you may be invited to his office for a visit. In the first case you have the pleasantly surprising kind of romance; in the second, the exciting kind.

Another of life's necessary tasks is washing dishes. In most homes this chore is performed as quickly and as infrequently as possible. But consider the ways in which it could be done decoratively.

You might begin by pouring a few drops of food coloring, blue, yellow or green, depending on the mood you have or want to have during the operation—into the dishwasher. The pastel soapsuds will effect a romantic lift to an otherwise dull and usually thankless job.

Then for those who follow the philosophy "Never dry what will comfortably drain," the task of dishwashing offers yet another opportunity to be decorative. In stacking the dishes there are infinite possibilities for creative expression. With a little patience and careful attention to the principles of balance, the finished construction can take on the proportions (if not the dimensions) of a Japanese pagoda. Aside from the inner satisfaction of having created a thing of beauty, there is also the possibility that someone in seeking the insert for the coffee pot might inadvertently pull out the wrong prop. Again you have the exciting kind of romance.

No task is too mundane for the application of Calthrop's postulate, not even the chore of taking out the garbage. One of the ways that might embellish this heretofore hopelessly unromantic task would be to wrap the garbage in bright colored gift wrap. Or if funds are not available for such extravagance, you might cut a string of paper dolls out of the rim of the garbage bag. This creates a delightfully perforated border through which the garbage can be viewed in all its splendor. A word of caution here: don't make the dolls too large. The contents might tend to spill through, detracting somewhat from the aesthetics. You might then carry it out to its cylindrical re-

Gadget Tree Opens

Sunset House, the well known mail-order merchandising firm opened their twenty-second store in the Northridge Center under the name of "Gadget Tree".

According to panel tests conducted by Sunset House, the name "Gadget Tree" is more uniquely appropriate to the type of novelty items for which Sunset House is famous. The colorful store is serving the Salinas Area enabling residents to see and shop for the exciting, unusual merchandise otherwise available only by mail. The modern, inviting store also features a complete line of American Greeting Card products, a wide array of decorative gifts including candles of all description, artificial flowers, decorative housewares and on and on. "Gadget Tree" truly is a store that appeals to men, women, boys and girls of all age groups.

Sunset House also operates a Greeting Card Kiosk in Northridge under the name of "Card Tree". Mail choppers are able to purchase American Greeting Cards and related items while strolling to and from other stores in the Center. This Kiosk is a new venture for Sunset House.

Coming as manager of both the "Gadget Tree" and "Card Tree" from Fresno, Mrs. Virginia Evans joined Sunset House just this year after 16 years of experience in the retail field. Most of this time was spent in the San Francisco Bay Area. Mrs. Evans is married and has one child. They reside in Soledad, where her husband is an officer at the Correctional Facility.

Sunset House, headquartered in Los Angeles, is a division of Broadway-Hale Stores, Inc. At "Gadget Tree" and "Card Tree" all merchandise carries the Sunset House unconditional money-back guarantee.

Other members are Mary Burton, Chairman of Decoration Committee; Dolores Hampton, Prince Harris, Betty Mann, entertainment committee chairmen; Betty Sapp, director and coordinator of debutante's programs and Ruthie Watts, charm advisor. It is to be noted that the latter three members have held these positions since the club was organized four years ago. Honorary members are Pearl Carey, Bertha Hutchins, Charlie Knight and Attorney Jane Van Hook.

The first affair this club year is the League's second Annual Pre-Holiday Fashion show and dance which will be held at the Non-Commissioned Officers' Club, Fort Ord, on Sunday, December 10, from 6 to 10:30 p.m. Music will be provided by Robert Cardwell and his Trio. Donations are $1.50 in advance and $2 at-the-door. For further information and tickets, contact Ruthie Watts or Betty Mann, 394-1308.

Models who will give a preview of latest fashions to be worn during the holiday season and at other times are Chuck Barnes, Sgt. Cooper, Chuck Davis, Vera Davis, Martha Dimeray, Dorcas Elliot, Linda Gaines, Sheralynn Harris, Delores Hebert, Ida Hooks, Demetria Hunter, Nellie Lewis, Joyce McKinney, Maurya Mann, Garnett Noble, Theron Polite, Eleanor Quinn, Betty Sapp, Verna Sloan, Bea Smith, Beryl Smith, Elizabeth Smith, Gerald Smith, Rick Smith, Otis Stevenson, LaDonne Sutter, Ruthie Watts, Calvin Webb, Danny Wiley and guest model, Wyoline Littlejohn of San Jose.

Clothes to be shown are from Vogue of Salinas Dick Bruhn and Royal Furs of Salinas, Lavore and from the models' own wardrobe--some of their own creations. Wigs worn by models will be styled by Nicole of Pacific Grove.

All proceeds from affair will go toward the League's scholarship fund. Recently, the Monterey Peninsula Cotillian League awarded $1500 in scholarships.

Other activities of the club is the phase of screening and selecting 1973 debutantes, who will be present during a tea to be held in January 1973, prior to the young ladies being formally introduced during a cotillian ball scheduled in February.

MAGIC CARPET BACK AGAIN

"Alice in Wonderland" will be this month's production by the Magic Carpet, Hidden Valley's Theatre for Children. Lewis Carroll's classic will come to life Sunday, November 26 at the White Oaks Theatre, Carmel Valley Rd. at Ford Rd. Because of the overflow crowd last month for "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow", there will be two performances of "Alice" on the 26th, 2:30 and 4:00 p.m. Come early as no one will be admitted after the play begins.

Numerous productions of "Alice in Wonderland" have delighted both young and old audiences for many years. Several movies have been made using Carroll's basic story and characters. Then, why come and see the Magic Carpet perform "Alice"?

Frist, the style of the Magic Carpet's production of "Alice" will be different from any other production you've seen. There will be no elaborate set that tries to simulate wonderland. There will be no fancy costumes, props, or effects for you to rely on. The audience must be willing to provide the settings and costumes with their own imaginations. The actors will help you by using mime, improvisation, and Lewis Carroll's beautiful images. Children, who have not lost their sense of wonder, especially enjoy this type of audience participation. The young mind is completely willing to suspend its disbelief and see its own settings for wonderland, its won costumes, and its own images. The Magic Carpet believes his exercise in imagination is extremely necessary and very beneficial to young theatregoers.

The second reason you might enjoy seeing the Magic Carpet's version of "Alice in Wonderland" is the story itself. Lewis Carroll, which was a pseudonym for Charles Dodgson, wrote "Alice" a story about a little girl very fond of pretending to be two people, for a friend named Alice Liddell, 7-1/2 years old. Ever since Carroll-Dodgson first published the book in 1865, children have been delighted by the nonsense and adults have been puzzled by it. Children accept the absurd reality of wonderland, while adults have tried to explain that absurd reality. The complex images, puns, games and satires will keep the most dedicated reader of "Alice" occupied for a lifetime. And isn't it wonderful that children can enjoy "Alice" without even knowing "where the flame on a candle goes after its blown out".

For your convenience, advance tickets are available both in Carmel, Rm. 5 of the Sunset Cultural Center, and in Carmel Valley at the Thunderbird Book Store. There are no reserved seats. Tickets are $1 for adults and 75¢ for kids. There is a group rate for parties of ten and over if you call in advance. For more ticket information, call 624-6911.

Join the Magic Carpet Nov. 26 at 2:30 and 4:00 p.m. at the White Oaks Theatre, Carmel Valley Rd. at Ford Rd., for Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland".

ORDINANCE NO. 425
AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF SEASIDE RELATING TO ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORTS

The City Council of the City of Seaside does ordain as follows:

1. ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORTS REQUIRED:
The Planning Department of the City of Seaside shall accept and review all applications regarding environmental impact reports and shall prepare each environmental impact report required. The Planning Director shall determine whether or not a project has a significant effect upon the environment in accordance with the procedure specified herein. The Planning Director may determine that the proposed project has a negative environmental impact based on information developed by city investigation and review and information submitted by the applicant.

2. PLANNING DIRECTOR'S POWERS:
The Planning Director of the City of Seaside shall accept and review all applications regarding environmental impact reports and shall prepare each environmental impact report required. The Planning Director shall determine whether or not a project has a significant effect upon the environment in accordance with the procedure specified herein. The Planning Director may determine that the proposed project has a negative environmental impact based on information developed by city investigation and review and information submitted by the applicant.

3. COSTS AND FEES:
All actual costs associated with the development of information adequate to make a determination of a proposed project's impact upon the environment shall be borne by the applicant. The city planning department and other city departments may require such maps, exhibits, reports or other data from the applicant, as reasonably necessary, in order to make a finding or conclusion regarding the project's impact upon the environment. All anticipated costs may be required to be deposited at the time of the filing of the application. Fees for such applications shall be set by resolution of the city council.

4. EXEMPTIONS:
The following types of projects are deemed to be insignificant in nature and no environmental impact report shall be required with respect to them:
a. Repair, maintenance, or minor alteration of existing structures where there is no material change in the external dimensions and no attendant change in the general character of the use.
b. New single-family dwellings in areas where other single-family dwellings already exist.
c. Additions to existing single-family structures in areas zoned for single-family dwellings.
d. Accessory buildings where a single-family dwelling already exists on the same lot.

5. ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORT PROCEDURE:
a. The Planning Department shall prepare an environmental impact report application form and accompanying instructions and guidelines.
b. The Planning Department shall refer an application to another city department for its review and recommendation where it appears that the proposed project contains features involving the department's expertise.
c. The Planning Department shall review the completed application after its review to other affected departments and the Planning Director shall determine whether the project could have a significant impact upon the environment.
d. If the project, as determined by the Planning Director, could have no significant impact upon the environment the application shall be placed on file in the Planning Department for public review and comment. A copy thereof shall be furnished to the Planning Director for his information and guidance.
e. The Planning Director's determination may be appealed to the City Council. Such appeal shall be in writing and filed with the City Clerk within ten (10) days of the date of the application and determination. The fee for such appeal shall be set by resolution of the City Council.

6. The City Clerk shall set the appeal for hearing by the City Council at the earliest convenient meeting of the council but in no event later than 21 days following receipt of the appeal. The City Clerk shall give written notice of the date and time of the hearing to the applicant and appellant. The permit or city entitlement involved shall be stayed pending the council's determination of the appeal.
g. Upon expiration of the ten (10) day appeal period, the Planning Director shall authorize the issuance of the required permit or entitlement to the applicant to proceed with the project.
h. If the Planning Director determines the proposed project could have a significant impact upon the environment, no permit or other entitlement shall be issued until an environmental impact report has been prepared and acted upon by the City Council and the Planning Commission.

7. If the Planning Commission determines that an environmental impact report is required, the proposed project shall be promptly scheduled for a public hearing before the City Council for its determination of the boundaries of the area affected by the project. The City Clerk shall publish notice in the City's legal newspaper of such public hearing at least ten (10) days prior to such hearing. After fixing the boundaries of the area affected by the project, the City Council shall refer the project to the Planning Commission for further hearing.

8. The Planning Commission shall review all environmental impact reports prior to issuance of any required permit or other city entitlement through public hearing thereon. Notice of such hearing shall be published ten (10) days prior to the hearing. Any permit or city entitlement may be conditioned by the Planning Commission to reflect the findings of the environmental impact report. The Planning Commission may review environmental impact reports simultaneously with any hearing conducted upon the same subject matter.

9. ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORTS; CONTENTS:
Environmental impact reports shall provide the following information:
a. Environmental impact of the proposed action.
b. Probable adverse environmental effects.
c. Mitigation measures proposed to minimize impact.
d. Alternatives to the proposed action.
e. Relationship between local short-term uses of men's environment and maintenance and enhancement of long-term productivity.
f. Any irreversible environmental changes involved in the proposed action, if implemented.
g. The growth-inducing impact of the proposed action.
h. The boundaries of the area which may be significantly affected by the proposed action.
The environmental impact report shall be concluded with a summary conclusion and, where necessary, additional evaluation shall be provided.

10. This ordinance shall take effect as an urgency measure in order to preserve the public health, safety, and welfare. The facts supporting such urgency are that the city has been processing applications for permits and other city entitlements on an ad hoc basis since the state supreme court's decision in Friends of Mammoth, et al. v. Mono County Board of Supervisors, et al. Thus, it is necessary that the city adopt guidelines for the preparation of environmental impact reports at the earliest possible time so that pending projects under city review be not unduly delayed.

PASSED AND ADOPTED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SEASIDE at a regular meeting duly held on November 16, 1972, by the following vote:

The Accident Victim's Guide to the Fault Vs. No-fault Debate.

Last year, you and your luckier fellow motorists shelled out more than $7 billion in auto liability insurance premiums.

But you and other accident victims got back less than $3 billion in actual accident benefits.

"What in hell happened to the other $4 billion?"

That's the question which started the Fault vs. No-fault debate in the first place.

The answer is simple enough. Less than half of the missing money went for the things you'd expect—selling expenses, state taxes, overhead and company profits. The lion's share—about $2.2 billion—went for legal expenses.

Is this any way to run auto insurance?

The guy who invented the No-fault idea didn't think so.

He saw that if you eliminated the necessity of proving somebody else was at fault—which you couldn't prove much of the time anyway—you could lop off most of the $2.2 billion in legal expenses. And actually reduce premiums while raising accident benefits for the seriously injured.

The way to do it was to have each motorist insure himself against economic losses. And virtually eliminate the ugly ritual of suing "the other guy."

He believed it was more important to care for the man who was hurt than to find out how he got hurt. So do we.

Now the No-fault idea is being debated in the U.S. Senate and in many states. Including California.

Now is the time to settle that $2.2 billion question.

Are accident benefits guaranteed?

Fault. No. You have to settle or sue for every penny.

No-fault. Yes. Absolutely. Certainly. And always.

Who pays the legal expenses?

Fault. If you go to court, you pay your legal expenses out of your settlement. On the average in such lawsuits, you pay 42¢ in legal expenses out of every dollar you collect.

No-fault. Nobody. There are virtually no legal fees to pay because lawsuits are almost totally eliminated.

Are all my economic losses paid for?

Fault. Not without a legal fight. Even then, the average victim with an economic loss of more than $10,000 recovers only a third. And 4 out of 10 such victims get nothing.

No-fault. Yes. All reasonable and future economic losses are taken care of—including all medical and hospital bills, loss of income (up to a comfortable monthly maximum), funeral expenses and survivor benefits.

How long do I have to wait before I get paid?

Fault. Almost 10 times longer than it takes to collect on homeowner's insurance, and 40 times longer than on health insurance. And the bigger the claim, the longer you wait.

No-fault. Once your claim has been filed, it takes no longer than the computer needs to make out a check—as the bills become due, and as long as there are bills.

Who pays for rehabilitation costs?

Fault. If you win your case, you get a lump settlement which may or may not cover rehabilitation costs, and never covers inflation.

No-fault. Covers all reasonable rehabilitation costs as they occur, even years later.

What if the other guy has no insurance?

Fault. You sue anyway—unless you have extra "uninsured motorist" coverage—and take what you can get. If he has only an average income, you can always hope he wins the lottery before the lawsuit is settled.

No-fault. You are still covered. Completely. Because you're covered by your own insurance policy, not the other guy's.

Would my family have received benefits if I hadn't survived?

Fault. Not necessarily. For example, they would have had to sue to recover your future income. And, of course, wait.

No-fault. Survivor benefits are immediate, automatic and comprehensive—and include expenses, present economic loss and future income.

What happens if I can't work anymore?

Fault. You have to figure into your lawsuit claim what your income might have been, then hope the jury agrees with you.

No-fault. You get paid what you're now making up to a fair monthly maximum. And the checks come in every month as long as you live or normally would have worked.

Who pays if I am a pedestrian?

Fault. You have to sue. And wait. And take what you can get.

No-fault. You get paid the same compensation for all your economic losses. Without argument. Without delay.
